REAL SHOPMEN'S COMMITTEE ON POLICY CALLED; TALK OF PEACE

Meeting to Be Held in Chicago Monday—Possibility of Separate Agreements With 52 of Class One Roads Discussed by Strike Leaders.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The real shopmen's committee on policy called today for a meeting in Chicago Monday. The committee, which is made up of representatives of the 52 class one roads, is expected to discuss the possibility of separate agreements with the strike leaders. The meeting is expected to be held at the Hotel Hamilton.

JEWELL REPORTED ON WAY TO CHICAGO

Union Chief Said to Have Been in Various Eastern Cities for Secret Conferences on Strike Settlement Plan.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—With the railway shop crafts policy committee of ninety summoned to meet in Chicago next Monday, hope again held out for an early or partial settlement of the shopmen's strike. The committee, which is made up of representatives of the 52 class one roads, is expected to discuss the possibility of separate agreements with the strike leaders.

Call Over Jewell's Name

The call for the policy committee meeting, issued at Chicago strike headquarters by John Scott, secretary of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, went out to the general chairman of the shopcrafts organization over the name of B. Jewell, head of the department, whose whereabouts had remained mysteriously unknown since the Government's strike injunction was granted.

Impediment Demand

The meeting of the shopcrafts leaders was called for the same day on which Judge Wilkerson set for the Government's application to lift the Daugherty injunction permanent. Leaders in the East joined the demand for the impediment to the Daugherty injunction and Attorney-General Daugherty and Judge Wilkerson because of the injunction.

At the Same Time Samuel Gom

President of the American Federation of Labor, and his Executive Council, meeting at Atlantic City, issued for a court battle to vacate the injunction.

CROWD BREAKS UP COOLIDGE'S ADDRESS AT MINNESOTA FAIR

By the Associated Press. HAMLINE, Minn., Sept. 7.—After a crowded grandstand had given Vice-President Coolidge a noisy reception when he appeared at the Minnesota State Fair yesterday afternoon, the crowd grew impatient near the close of his address, and after two interruptions by untimely applause, the Vice President closed his address. Fair officials attributed the demonstrations to the extreme heat and a desire on the part of the crowd to have the horse races start.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR DOG RACING CONCERN

Michael Doyle of East St. Louis to Handle Affairs of St. Clair Amusement Co.

A creditors' receivership suit was filed today against the St. Clair Amusement Co., which operated the dog race track in East St. Louis up to the middle of July. Circuit Judge Crow of Belleville, before whom the suit was brought, appointed Michael Doyle, of East St. Louis, receiver.

The track was closed because of Sheriff Schnipper's objections to the betting conducted there by bookmakers. The Sheriff threatened to bring injunction proceedings against the place if it were reopened with betting. So long as the betting was undisturbed, racing fans found the dog racing an acceptable substitute for horse racing, the interest being in the betting rather than in the

In the receivership petition three creditors' claims are listed, and it is stated that there are numerous other claims. The Broderick Electric Co. of East St. Louis claims an obligation of $4330.33; the Schaub Hardware and Iron Co., $586.50, and the McLean & Galvin Real Estate Co., $450.90.

It was alleged that the amusement company had been insolvent since July 1, when it gave a $20,000 mortgage to the Southern Illinois Trust Co. George G. Keith, president of the amusement company, was named as having executed the mortgage.

The property, it is stated, consists of 12½ acres of improved land. The dog racetrack was opened a year ago. The racing dogs were greyhounds, and the object of their pursuit was a stuffed rabbit skin, borne on an electrically driven car. This form of dog racing was the successor of the old pastime of coursing, in which live rabbits were pursued, and which used to flourish in and around St. Louis in the days when open betting on horse races was permitted.

MAYOR AGREES TO APPORTION NEGRO PICNICS

Announces Decision Today
After 450 at Mass Meeting
Last Night Determined to Send Protest.

O'FALLON PARK DISTRICT AROUSED

Residents Contended More Than Share of Gatherings
Lessened Property Value and Neighborhood Quiet.

Instructions will be given to the aPrk Department at once to map out a districting system by means of which it can be arranged that no park in the city will receive a disproportionate number of picnics of any one class or classes. Mayor Kiel told a Post-Dispatch reporter today, after was commenting on expressions of protest made at a meeting of the O'Fallon aPrk Protective Association last night against the alleged excessive use of O'Fallon Park for negro gatherings.

"Those people out in the North End have a kick coming," the Mayor said, in announcing his intentions. Details of the plan to have each park receive only its own share of particular kinds of picnics will have to be worked out by the Park Department, probably upon the basis of space available for picnic uses, he declared.

The proposal of the Mayor closely resembles one of four which a committee, headed by E. M. Hoffman, president of the association, will lay before him next Tuesday afternoon. Mayor Kiel also favors including a provision in the municipal bond issue for a separate park for negroes, as advocated in another of the committee's proposals.

The committee was named at last night's meeting of the park association in the Pilgrim Evangelical Lutheran Church after the 450 men and women present had listened to speeches asserting that property values in the vicinity were being injured by the picnics and that the Mayor could give immediate relief, if so inclined.

The proposals the committee will lay before the Mayor, of which three are for temporary and the last for permanent relief, are: that the Mayor shall cause, either:

1.—The division of the city into three districts, North, Central and West, and have all picnics ordered held in the districts in which they originate.

2.—The curtailment of the number of negro picnics in O'Fallon Park.

3.—The prohibition of all picnics in the park from one to three years to give opportunity for "rehabilitation" of the park grounds.

4.—Incorporation of a $500,000 to $750,000 provision in the municipal bond issue for a separate park for negroes.

The last proposal was the most strongly urged by a majority of the speakers, many of whom asserted they wanted no injustice done to the negroes. Alderman Kuba of the First Ward, chairman of the committee before which the bond issue will come, declared he would work for a separate park provision when the issue comes up for consideration. Some site along the river front was recommended by Arthur Keller of 4499 Red Bud avenue, treasurer of the association, for a negro park. He said letters had been received from negroes indicating that part of the organization's stand.

Mayor Kiel, however, declared that the Mayor and Alderman Kuba of the Twenty-first Ward, were asked to attend the meeting. Neither was present. A letter of regret from the Mayor's secretary, saying an out-of-town engagement kept him away and that "nothing would have given him greater pleasure than to attend," was greeted with laughter by the crowd.

Romance of Millionaire's Grandson Comes to an End

J. M. Towne, Who Married Russian Factory
Girl and Took Job in Auto Plant
Sues for Divorce.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 7.—The story-book romance of Joseph Meredith Towne, grandson of Henry R. Towne, chairman of the board of directors of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. of Stamford, has come to an end. Towne yesterday filed a petition for divorce in the Superior Court here, charging infidelity by Mrs. Sarah Raven Towne, 18, born in Kiev, Russia, with whom he took from the job factory to be his bride three years ago last March.

Towne, as the grandson of the millionaire founder of a huge corporation, had been carefully tutored and was ready for college when he was 15 years old. Miss Sarah Raven, 18, born in Kiev, Russia, had come to the United States with her parents 12 years before. She was one of seven children, who helped their father, Max, in a small tailoring shop. When she finished at grammar school she found that she had to go to work. She obtained employment in the Yale & Towne house and it was not long before Towne saw her. His mother protested strongly against the marriage. The girl's father, an orthodox Jew, objected even more strongly. The result of the opposition was that the young couple eloped to Toledo, O., and were married March 13, 1919. They went to Detroit, where Towne obtained a job in an automobile factory, where he earned $30 a week as a mechanic.

The young pair wrote happy letters home and in time both the Towne and Raven families became convinced the two were happily married. In May, Towne suffered the loss of a finger in an accident at his work in the automobile factory. His mother hurried to Detroit. She had a long talk with the couple, helped nurse her son, and finally brought them back to Connecticut with her. They lived with her in Brick House, the family home at Norwalk.

While a desperate effort was made by anti-ku Klux Democrats to have a resolution condemning the Klan and its activities passed, the convention refused to either condemn or commend the Klan. It was almost non-committal as far as the Klan was concerned, including in the platform a provision favoring "freedom of conscience and separation of church and state."

The big fight on the Klan question came yesterday afternoon. A move was made to bring on the floor a minority report of the Platform Committee, openly denouncing the Klan. An uproar followed, culminating in the convention tabling the minority report, by a vote of 691 to 135. The uproar continued while the vote was being taken and ballots were contested, but the Democratic platform was left minus a direct declaration on the Ku Klux Klan.

Then came announcement that the anti-ku Klux Klan party is to be organized. A call for a convention to be held in Dallas will be sent out today, it was said. Organization of this party caused Dr. E. P. Wilcox, Austin banker, who was named by the Republicans as their candidate for the United States Senate, to decline the nomination so that he can aid in furthering the cause of the anti-ku Klux Klan party.

ANTI-KU KLUX PARTY PLANNED IN TEXAS

Democrats at State Convention
Refuse to Take Definite Stand on Klan.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 7.—The Texas Republican party will join in the movement started here last night by anti-ku Klux Klan members of the Democratic convention to organize a Texas anti-Klan political party. R. B. Creager, Republican State chairman, declared in a statement issued here today.

Refusal of the Democrats to take a stand on the Ku Klux Klan featured the last day's session of the State Democratic convention here yesterday.

While a desperate effort was made by anti-ku Klux Democrats to have a resolution condemning the Klan and its activities passed, the convention refused to either condemn or commend the Klan. PENNSYLVANIA STATE POLICE LAY MOST CRIMES TO AVARICE

Report for 1921 Shows Crime on Human Traits; More Single Than Married Men Arrested.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—Avarice led all human failings as a cause of crime for which arrests were made by the Pennsylvania State Police during 1921. Of a total of 12,908 arrests covered in a report for the year, made public here yesterday, 5550 were listed under this heading.

More single than married men were arrested and for the most of those taken into custody the offense was their first. There were 7141 single men and 5767 married men arrested. Of the total, 11,738 were first offenders, 114 second offenders and 936 third offenders. The report lists 12,162 as white and 746 black. There were 12,202 men and 706 women.

The youngest offenders were 10 years old and there were 37 of these. The oldest was 80. There was only one of this age, although there were two of 78 and two of 76.

The most dangerous years, apparently, were between 20 and 35. There were more offenders—545—of the age of 24 than of any other age. The 30-year mark was second, with 579.

BULLET BREAKS WINDSHIELD

Man and Wife Have Narrow Escape; Shots Fired From Cornfield

Two bullets, fired from a cornfield on Columbia avenue near 96th last night, narrowly missed Arnold Barnes, of 1122 Southwest avenue, a motorman, and his wife, who were passing in that block in their automobile.

Barnes reported that one of the bullets whizzed between him and his wife and broke the windshield of their automobile. Police searched the neighborhood, but were unable to learn anything of the shooting. They said that the shots possibly might have been fired by some one practicing by moonlight, as Barnes said he had no enemies and knew

"HEADS AND TAILS" SETTLES COURT CASE

Chinese Suit for Receivership Ends When Six Partners Compromise With Seventh, the Plaintiff.

Heads and tails, not so exciting a game of chance as fan-tan, but an innovation in court procedure, settled the suit of Sung Lee against Laon Fun, which came to trial before Circuit Judge Hartmann today.

Sung Lee, a Korean, sued for receivership for the Tuxedo Cafe, 5658A Delmar boulevard, in which he had $1000 invested, and of which Laon Fun was manager and chief of six Chinese partners.

But the court costs amounted to $41.25. Who should pay them? That was the point on which the compromise, for the moment, stuck.

The Chinese defendants did not so much mind paying the money. But, by the souls of their ancestors, they did not intend to admit that they had been beaten in the suit. This was a compromise, and the costs should be compromised with the rest. They would pay one-half of the costs and no more.

Sung Lee was just as positive that he would not pay any part of the costs. He was the loser by accepting $900, when he had invested $1000, he averred, and he would not donate another $20 or so to his adversary. If he were to do this, he felt that he might as well have left settlement of the whole matter to the On Leong Tong, to which Laon Fun had tried to take it.

There was whispering of the lawyers and of the two chief litigants. Then His Honor was asked to excuse the group, and, in the hallway, Tom Stanton, attorney for the Chinese, took a nickel from his pocket. Murry Edwards, attorney for Sung Lee, tossed the nickel, and Laon Fun called, "Heads." It was tails, and the defense paid all the costs. Had it been heads, under the whispered agreement, Sung Lee would have paid half the costs.

Before the settlement was reached, the two lawyers had addressed the court, Stanton telling of the arrangement by which, with a total of $12,000 invested in the restaurant, each of the seven partners was to draw $10 a month, and all were to live on the premises. A bank was provided for Sung Lee, the lawyer said, but he had not occupied it recently, possibly because he was afraid to.

One of Sung Lee's grievances was that Laon Fun had called him "Japs' slave," an odious allusion to the present subjection of Korea to Japan. A fight between the two, which was taken into police court, was followed by Sung Lee's withdrawal from the concern and the filing of his claim. It was taken up by the On Leong Tong, but Sung Lee was unwilling to leave it to the Tong, as he does not understand the Chinese language, hence the court was invoked.

INQUIRY INTO CHARACTER OF RAIL GUARDS PROPOSED

Assistant President of Carmen Tolls Daugherty That Escaped Convicts Were Appointed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 1.—The first step in proposed investigation of the character and alleged unlawful actions of special Deputy United States Marshals appointed to guard railroad property in Iowa, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas was taken last night by the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, when F. N. Wright, assistant president, dispatched this telegram to Attorney-General Daugherty.

"Have been, as assistant general president of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, reliably informed that paroled convicts, escaped convicts, bootleggers and aliens have been appointed as United States Deputy Marshals and that their conduct in a number of instances has been unbecomingly a representative of our Government. May I, therefore, as a citizen and representative of 175,000 other citizens, protest such appointment and offer my assistance in verifying the above."

Wright has in his possession reports from the five states. Two paroled convicts are alleged to be serving as Deputy United States Marshals in North McAlester, Ok., according to advices in Wright's hands. In Denison, Tex., he says, two escaped convicts are acting as deputies.

WATER METER SYSTEM RESUMED

Russell Gibson, an employee of the Western Cartridge Co., East Alton, Ill., has been appointed water meter reader for East Alton by the City Council. Readings will be made every three months by Gibson, who will be allowed three days in which to cover the village, at a salary of $5 a day.

East Alton buys its water from the Western Cartridge Co., and sold it to residents on a flat rate basis until last month when it was decided that a return to the meter system should be made. This system had been in use several years ago. The first reading will be made by Gibson Oct. 1.

IMITATION CLUNKY LACE SOLD AS GENUINE, POLICE ARE TOLD

Occupants of Boatmen's Bank Building Report They Were Defrauded by Girl Peddlers.

The sale here of lace at extortionate prices, said to have been falsely represented to be "clunky" lace imported from Ireland, by three girls in the Boatmen's Bank Building several weeks ago, has been reported to the police.

The girls are reported to have displayed pieces of the lace in the matron's room at the building, saying it had been made by their grandmothers in Ireland by candle light. They offered it for sale, saying they had to raise $100 to pay the duty on thread they had brought with them from Ireland recently, to make more of the lace here.

Several women at the building purchased pieces of the lace at a price of about 40 cents a yard. It was later found that the material was a clever factory imitation, to be had here for 25 cents a yard.

The three girls, the oldest about 24 years old and the youngest 15, also said they were going to teach lace-making at one of the department stores here. Indications that their activities recently have extended to the residential districts are shown by the fact that several customers have called at the store asking when the girls would begin the classes.

Customs officials report no knowledge of a consignment of lace thread here, and the store says no one has appeared offering to teach lace-making.

PRINCESS ANASTASIA IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Princess Anastasia of Greece, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds of New York, is in London for a day or two, stopping at her mansion, Spencer House, which has been untenanted since before her marriage to Prince Christopher except by her son and his wife.

"I am returning to Paris in a day or two, so I do not expect to do any entertaining here, nor have I decided when I shall return to London," said, "I came over solely for the wedding of Princess Marina and have gone nowhere and am very socially."

Diversified Entertainment L... on Seven-Day Program Op... ing in Tent in Afternoon

University City's second annual chautauqua season opens tomorrow afternoon and will continue seven days. Programs will be given each afternoon and evening, except at the southwest corner near boulevard and Trinity avenue west of the entrance to University City.

Diversified programs, including several lectures of national and international fame, musical entertainment and even a minstrel show, will be presented.

Tomorrow afternoon's program includes a lecture on conditions in Russia, by Dr. Homer B. Hoag, who spent some time in that country. His treatment of the subject deals with "Red" propaganda in America, as well as Bolshevik activities in Russia.

Among other lecturers scheduled for the week are: Robert G. O'Neil, for 18 years Congressman from his home district in Iowa and six years chairman of the House Committee on Forestry and Reclamation; J. Campbell White, New York director general of laymen's missionary movement; "Where Does Religion Come From?" John Temple Graves, editorial writer for the Atlanta Constitution and author, and Dr. B. R. Baumgardner, Los Angeles, on "An Evening of the Stars."

A feature of the musical number will be the appearance of the night of Serge de Zanco, tenor, formerly with the Paris and Grand Opera Companies and under a five-year contract with the Grand Opera House of Brussels. He will appear with Mrs. Bunnell, dramatic soprano, and Mark O'Haritone, Di Zanco is the husband of Countess Tolstoy.

There will be a musical program in connection with each lecture.

BOTTLE PEEPS FROM COAT; HONEYMOON COUPLE

Hindson and 18-Year-Old Daughter Following Discovery of Liquor.

Thomas W. Avery, 31, a carpenter of Behl, Ill., and Mary, his 18-year-old bride of two months, are held at police headquarters here for continuing a honeymoon trip to Lima, O., all because the neck bottle protruded from the pocket of a coat the bride was holding for husband as they sat yesterday at a table at Union Station.

A policeman, called by a stowaway, who observed the neck bottle, discovered the bottle containing whisky. He also found three points of liquor in one of Avery's handbags. Avery told a Post-Dispatch reporter after his arrest the whisky was intended for aged parents in Lima, where he was taking his bride to see them and two children by a former marriage. His wife would not have holding the bottle, Avery said, he not become thirsty from the trip from Behl, taken the 11 from his handbag at the station and put it in his coat after having "a drink" in the washroom. A warrant charging transaction of liquor will be asked against the Averages.

MISSOURI AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY CONVENTION

Delegates, Numbering 50, to Vis... S. Public Health Hospital...

The annual three-day convention of the American Legion Auxiliary of the Missouri Department opens at the Planters Hotel today with delegates attending.

The convention opened with meeting of the State Executive Committee. This afternoon the delegates will visit the United States Public Health Service Hospital, 5809 National street, and a round table of present and past presidents secretaries will be held at the Planters Hotel. The number of delegates and visitors is expected to be augmented by 100 members of the Missouri department, which will be voted entirely to business until 10 p. m., when there will be a banquet at the Planters. Following the banquet there will be a theater. The convention will close Saturday night with a dance in the Planters ballroom.

Mrs. Clark Hudson, president of the St. Louis Auxiliary Executive Committee, is in charge of convention arrangements.

PLANS TO BE MADE TONIGHT FOR INVESTIGATION OF CANDIDATES

Church Workers' Association Will Look Into Records of Aspirants for Political Posts.

Church workers of all denominations have been invited to meet at the Lafayette Park Methodist Church, Lafayette and Missouri avenues, at 8 o'clock tonight to complete plans for investigation of the records of all candidates seeking public office in the November election. Notices have been sent to 55 church organizations, but the meeting is open to the public.

A temporary organization was formed recently, with W. A. Godbey, 2340A Humphrey street, as chairman. A name will be selected tonight.

The organization proposes to make a complete investigation of the political, educational, business and home record of each candidate, as well as his character, through use of volunteer workers. This information will be held for distribution only to churches seeking it.

TWO $25,000 WRECK SUITS FILED

MISSOURI AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY CONVENTION OPENS

Delegates, Numbering 50, to Visit U. S. Public Health Hospital—Banquet Tomorrow.

The annual three-day convention of the Missouri American Legion Auxiliary of the Missouri Department opened at the Planters Hotel today with 50 delegates attending.

The convention opened with a meeting of the State Executive Committee. This afternoon the delegates will visit the United States Public Health Service Hospital, 5800 Arsenal street, and a round table meeting of present and past presidents and secretaries will be held at the Planters this evening. The number of delegates and visitors is expected to be augmented by 150 members at the session tomorrow, which will be devoted entirely to business until 8:30 p. m., when there will be a banquet at the Planters. Following the banquet there will be a theater party. The convention will close Saturday night with a dance in the Planters ballroom.

Mrs. Clark Hudson, president of the St. Louis Auxiliary Executive Committee, is in charge of convention arrangements.

REVOLVERS STOP SESSION

Bloodshed Prevented in Panama Assembly by Police.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, Sept. 7.—The National Assembly was thrown into confusion and sudden adjournment yesterday when two of the deputies drew revolvers during an argument. The chamber was discussing the status of deputies Arias and Alvarado, who are under charges, when Senor Chiriqui, Secretary of Government and Interior, asked the assembly to consider a measure which the government wished to submit. Deputy Vidal, a partisan of Senor Arias, raised this an act of insubordination and a criticism of the Government. His remarks angered Deputy Arias, who walked to the center of the room brandishing a revolver. Senor Vidal also drew a weapon, but the Chief of Police and other deputies intervened, preventing bloodshed.

absence of many officials of embassies and legations the only formal celebration was a reception at the Brazilian embassy.

Burning Feet, Corns and Callouses Halt Mrs. Doyer

On long hike from Boston to Los Angeles

Reaches New York Where Foot Troubles Threaten to End Strenuous Journey. Tells How She Outwitted Pains From Sore, Burning Feet, Corns and Bunions With

GYPSY FOOT RELIEF

A Wonderful Secret From the Desert

AFTER shaking hands with Governor Cox, of Massachusetts and Mayor Curley, of Boston, Mrs. Belsa Doyer and her fifteen-year-old son started their long hike from Boston to Los Angeles, California, with nothing but jack-knives in their pockets and walking sticks for protection on their strenuous journey. Dressed in khaki uniforms, they reached New York City in good time, where Mrs. Doyer's burning feet, corns and the appearance of a red-sore bunions threatened to halt her intended record-making expedition. But hearing of the wonders performed by Gypsy Foot Relief, Mrs. Doyer obtained a box and anxiously put it to the test, for here was an aggravated condition of foot troubles calling for immediate relief, and she must make good her slogan of "reach Los Angeles by foot-or-die!" How Mrs. Doyer succeeded in besting her own words in an interview, just before leaving New York to continue her 3,300 mile foot-trip. She said: "When we reached New York City, in good appearance, I thought I would have to give up my "reach-California-by-foot-or-die" program. Hearing about the wonders of Gypsy Foot Relief, I obtained a box and applied it that afternoon, and that night, and the next morning, and to my surprise, my feet felt as if they had new life. The burning and aches had ceased, the soreness had gone and the pains from corns and bunions had disappeared as if by magic. I started on my long hike again and now that I have some Gypsy Foot Relief, I am sure I will reach Los Angeles without any more foot troubles or misery."

NOTE—Gypsy Foot Relief, mentioned by Mrs. Doyer, is a secret from the desert. Applied in a minute, relief comes a few minutes later! The awful pains from burning, calloused feet, corns, and bunions seem to disappear as if by magic! No bother to apply—no plaster—no powder—no soaking feet in medicated baths—no fuss! Simply apply it as directed, then put on your shoes and walk, run or dance as long as you wish, or work and stay on your feet as long as you like! So remarkable are the reports of Gypsy Foot Relief from different parts of the country, that the makers guarantee successful results in every case or you get back the little it costs! It is sold in this city by all good druggists, including Wolff-Wilson, Jugs & Delph, Kettler Drug, Baddeley Drug Co., Johnson Bros., Kettler Drug, Famous-Bar Co.

VETERANS CONVALESCENCE AT HISTORIC SPOT

Nauvoo, Ill., Once Was Scene of Frenchman's Attempt to Establish a Utopia.

By the Associated Press.
NAUVOO, Ill., Sept. 7.—Convalescent soldiers of the World War, sent to the Government tubercular hospital here, are winning their way slowly back to health amid surroundings of unusual beauty and peculiar historical interest.

The story of the Icarian Community, founded by the son of a French cooper who became at once a great jurist, a high official of France and a respected novelist, is considered by some the most romantic story.

The cooper's son was Etienne Cabet, born at Dijon, France, who became in the time of Louis Philippe one of the leading French jurists, and during the Second Republic Attorney-General. Dreaming of a world in which all would be equal, he read Victor Hugo's novel, "Icaria," and from it drew the inspiration for his colony. He left behind his opportunities in France, and came to America. The Mormons had but recently, in 1846, driven up their holdings in the city of Nauvoo and were offering for sale their buildings in the town they had founded. Cabet and his followers virtually bought what was then the whole town of Nauvoo and established a community in which there was no private property.

The Mormons had set fire to their magnificent temple, but only the woodwork burned, leaving the valuable stone intact. Cabet and his followers set about restoring the building, but when their work was almost complete a terrific storm practically destroyed the structure. They then used the store to erect a large community house. It contained a dining room where all the community lived, and a kitchen where they ate their meals. The food was brought into the dining room from a nearby kitchen in small cars run on rails.

The Icarians were reputed industrious and frugal. Their orchestra was in that day considered the best in the United States. It is said, and their schools were so good that many from outside the colony came here for instruction. Production of goods became so great at one time that the society established a shoe store in St. Louis to dispose of the surplus shoes manufactured. Many articles also were sold in Keokuk, Ia.

Discontent is said to have developed in the colony because many of its skilled workmen wanted to make more money, and rebelled against Cabet's theory that the community should produce only enough for its needs. Cabet was defeated for president of the society. The colony faced bankruptcy, its members sold the property to pay debts and finally dissolved the community.

REAL RIP VAN WINKLE TOWN IN FULTON COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Quaint Village Found by Newspaper Writer in Quest of "Location" to Film Country Town Scene.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 7.—Bernadotte, a Rip Van Winkle town, is awakening from a century of sleep.

Like those souls living "on yonder hill" above Spook, Rip van Winkle quickened into life by the imagination of Edgar Lee Masters in his "anthology," the unperturbed inhabitants of this strange little village in Fulton County, Illinois, on the same Spook River, have been touched with life by the pen of a newspaper writer.

Without telephones, automobiles, railroads or any modern conveniences, this town had gone on in its undisturbed way for a hundred years, sleeping quietly in a busy world, until a few days ago when it was "discovered" by a motion picture director, and the next morning awoke to fame with a column of type in a Bloomington newspaper.

C. L. Varnard, looking about for a "location" to film a country town scene, ran across the village. It has no railroads and half the inhabitants claim never to have seen a train. It has no picture shows, and, of course, had never seen a motion picture camera. There are no telephones and no electricity in the town. The old village grist mill is still grinding away every day with water from the same spillway that supplied the mill a century ago.

Most of the folks of the town are farmers. A few of the oldest are considered to be retired. The others work in the fields, harvesting crops from the same ground their fathers and grandfathers tilled. There are two small wooden buildings in the village that serve as stores. The houses are quaint and old fashioned, of the old colonial and English type. Picket fences separate the yards. Old-fashioned flowered gardens bloom in the door yards.

BABY HAD LOST DIAMOND RINGS

Funny Glass Wouldn't Break When Little Fellow Pounded It.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—A few large and assorted diamonds left scattered around the house make excellent playthings for the baby and tend to keep him out of mischief. The bright glitter of the stones will catch baby's eye and he would rather hammer them with his toy engine than perhaps take a wallop at a fish or some other valuable article.

Mrs. Samuel H. Goldsmith, wife of an insurance broker, today recovered missing diamond rings valued at $1500. Her 4-year-old son told his mother he had seen some funny glass which wouldn't break when he pounded it. He was keeping the "glass" hidden in the cushion of the porch swing, between poundings.

DRY AGENTS MAKE 7 RAIDS IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Eleven Arrests by 22 Prohibition Officers Sent From Chicago to "Clean Up."

Operations of a force of 22 prohibition enforcement officers, sent from the Chicago office to "clean up" bootlegging in Madison and St. Clair counties, yesterday were centered in East St. Louis, seven raids resulting in 11 arrests and the confiscation of a large quantity of liquor.

Arrests, raids and confiscations were made as follows, according to the officers' report:

John Muensterfering and his son, John, saloon, 3700 State street; home brew and small quantity of liquor. They arranged to give $200 bond each.

John Malco, residence, 723 Exchange avenue; 10-gallon still, mash and liquor. Arrested.

Lizzie Emmerich, saloon, 10 North Third street; two pints of moonshine. Other liquor poured out in sight of officers. Arrested.

Frank Chokowski, residence, 1219 Gross avenue; 10 gallons of liquor. Arranged to give bond.

William Lada and wife, residence, 1412 Nectar avenue; 10 gallons moonshine and nine barrels of mash. Two men in the place were arrested with Lada and his wife.

Mike Remick, residence, 1034A North Thirteenth street; small quantity of moonshine and separated parts of a still. Arrested.

Mike Ziemia, residence, 1210 North Eighth street; quantity of liquor. Arrested.

ARGONAUT CREWS BEGIN THE ELEVENTH DAY TOWARD RESCUE

Several More Days' Work Required Before Men Reach 46 En-tombed Miners.

By The Associated Press.

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 7.—The eleventh day of ceaseless effort to bore a tunnel to reach the 46 entombed Argonaut miners foundered one crew this morning still far from their goal, with indications that the task must go on for at least several days.

Crews battering and drilling through earth and rock from 3600-foot and 3800-foot levels of the Kennedy mine, which adjoins the burning Argonaut, progressed between 20 and 30 feet last night.

Kennedy crews, burrowing through the 3900-foot level, have cleared approximately 650 feet and still must tunnel 165 feet through a caved-in tunnel to attain a 142-foot wall of solid rock. Then the wall of rock must be penetrated to reach the 4600 level of the Argonaut.

Argonaut rescue workers have approximately 300 feet caved-in tunnel to clear in the 3600-foot Kennedy level in order to reach a point 2 1/2 feet from the Argonaut 4200-foot level.

This 2 1/2 feet is solid rock, and engineers estimate that it can be drilled in 36 hours after being reached.

Think of it: 42 inches long! Goldman Bros. are placing on special sale 100 of these beautiful, genuine Tennessee cedar chests, such as are advertised every day, but are extra deep and roomy and 42 inches long. If you want to be convinced as to this remarkable value, take a tape measure and measure off 42 inches. Be sure to get it one while they last. After they are sold there will be no more to be had at this price. Remember, you get a beautiful Dinner Set Free at this sale.

What makes this Suit entirely different from anything you have ever seen before—and how can we afford to sell it for such a low price, you ask? This Suit was especially designed for us. It is the Suit you have been looking for, but have been unable to purchase because you could not afford it. By purchasing this Suit, you are enabled to demand a low price from the manufacturer hitherto unheard of. We will be unable to furnish any more of these Suits at this low price and save time to get a Suit while they last. Remember, YOU GET A BEAUTIFUL HOLLAND SCENE DINNER SET WITH YOUR PURCHASE.

WOMAN USES WASH BLUING TO IDENTIFY HER CHICKENS

Mark, Put on Them When Young, Remains on Flesh, But Is Hidden by Feathers.

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 7.—Angela Saenz, aged Mexican woman who washes clothes for a living and raises chickens and turkeys as a side line at her little hillside home here, has invented a way to identify her fowls when they are stolen. Her method was used after she had suffered many losses from night prowlers, and has been proved.

Her process is simple. When the fowl is young, she gets some plain wash bluing she uses on her clothes and rubs it on the fowl's flesh. Feathers grow over the "brand," but the bluing remains to the flesh. This mark serves the same purpose as finger prints of a criminal, nose prints or cattle brands, and is really better than brands or aluminum rings on chickens' feet, the old woman says, because the bluing mark is hidden until the feathers are rubbed back.

Angela's turkey yard was robbed of two of her finest birds. They were carried two miles away. She recognized them in another person's barnyard. She got an officer and the turkeys were caught. The feathers were rubbed back the wrong way and there Angela's mark.

The restoration of her property was then effected without protest.

FARMER SAYS HE WAS FLOGGED

Clay County Man Charges Neighbors Were in Party.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—James Haynes, 52 years old, a farmer living at Maple Park, Clay County, yesterday told Assistant United States Attorney McWilliams that on Friday night he was beaten with a cat-o-nine-tails by four neighboring farmers and told to leave the neighborhood. The neighbors accused him of chicken stealing, he said.

According to Haynes, much ill-feling has grown up in the neighborhood over a boundary fence and over chickens and gardens. A quarrel of many months' standing culminated in a bitter quarrel over the neighbors' chickens and the Haynes garden.

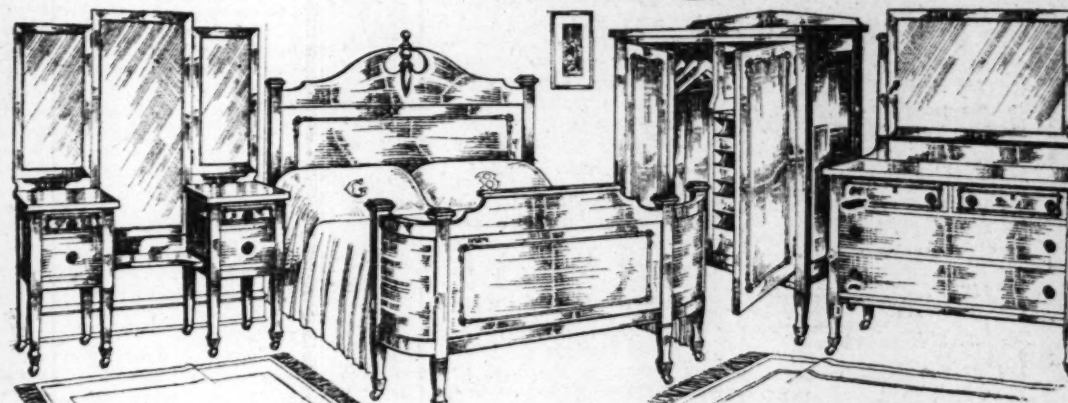

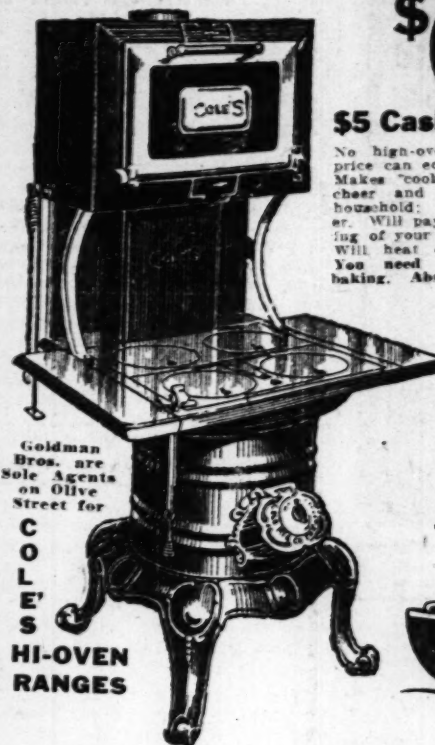

Haynes says. Haynes recognized four farmers in the group who took him from his home Saturday night. In his nightshirt, handcuffed him and took him to a pasture, where they beat him, according to his statement. Haynes denies he has stolen his neighbors' chickens.

PART THREE.

WHAT DID YOU SEE TODAY?

Volunteer Reporters Tell the Post-Dispatch of the Interesting, Unusual and Often Humorous Incidents They Encounter.

MOVIE directors will have to be more careful. Their mistakes and oversights are not "getting by" with the sharp-eyed critics who write for the What-Did-You-See department. Two such comments printed today come from the same household.

SHIFTING.
In "The Song of the Soul," featuring Vivian Martin, the hero, played by Fritz Lieber, appears at first with the scar, which he got in rescuing the child from the burning building, on the left side of his face. Through the rest of the picture, the scar is on the right side.

SELF-DRIVING.
I saw a moving picture in which the hero carried the heroine through a swamp in a rainstorm. When she was rescued she was wet and her dress was ruined while he enjoyed the comfort of a dry uniform and an immaculate blouse.

A SMOOTH HERO.
I saw Frank Mayo, after lying buried in the sand with only his face exposed for at least 40 hours, present a face as innocent of beard as a baby's face.

OUT INTO THE SNOW.
I saw Wallace Reid in a picture where he left all his luggage at the village inn after an absence of five years, and went to his parents' home. When his father ordered him out, he went, upstairs and got a suit case. Would he have clothes there?

INCHRONIZED.
In a movie thriller being shown in Maplewood, the crooks had laid their plans to rob the town bank at a certain hour. To indicate this hour, the words "Nine o'clock, m." were flashed on the screen. At that instant Maplewood's town curfew blew both loud and shrill.

HAPPY DISCOVERY.
I saw a woman enter an electric repair shop and ask the proprietor if he could repair her sweater. "I can repair anything that's broke," the man said. "I'll send my husband right over," the woman replied.

A BOLD SANDWICH.
I saw a man buy a loaf of white bread and a loaf of rye bread. He cut a slice of rye bread between two slices of white bread, smacked his lips and ate them.

HERMIT'S ARSENAL.
I saw an old man living in a woodshed near Matteson. Inside the shed was a saw on one side and coal oil on the other side his bed. Tied to the bed post was a chain which led to the outside, where the shed was and was locked on a brand-new Ford coupe. Inside the door was an air rifle.

A MOTTO OF '98.
A man about 70 got on a Belvedere car wearing on his coat a large button on which was the name, "Revenge the Maine; To sail with Spain!" This button was worn by many persons in the weeks before the Spanish-American war.

DOG EAT DOG.
I saw a man purchase 50 cents worth of wieners, go outside the shop and blow a little whistle. In answer a score of dogs came running from houses throughout the block. He gave them the wieners, when he walked away as if it were an every day occurrence.

COOLED COG-WHEELS.
My sister was going to boil an egg three minutes. Armed with a watch, held in one hand, and the egg in the other, she hovered over the kettle waiting for the water to boil. When it came to a boil she dropped the watch in and calmly waited several minutes holding the egg in her other hand. When she discovered her mistake she calmly removed the watch.

WE ARE BEHIND.
A St. Louis to Detroit train was a man with a watch on each ear, one St. Louis time and the other Detroit and Chicago daylight saving time, one hour ahead of our time.

LEAVE TAKING.
A married couple came to a rooming house for rent next door to the lady and the couple went on the front walk when the lady decided to take the room. The man discovered he had no change and so he kissed his wife across the street to an oil the door before he got on and he shouted, "Hey! We've been married 30 years and you can't separate us now!"

SQUARE.
I was seated in the office of a business school downtown when a middle-aged woman came in and paid the treasurer $15. When a girl, she had been a student at the school, and after 30 years had come back to pay the balance due the school for tuition.

THE PERVERSE SEX.
Laughing, she ran across the tracks before a car belated; the motor man threw on the brake till wheel and axle grated. A sickening horror clutched the heart of every humane body, who feared they were to see a corpse, all limp and crushed and bloody! Instead, they saw (both "mad" and "dead") the saucy, smiling stranger trip blithely on, the only one unmoved by thought of danger!

All white with fear, and sweat-bedewed, our Fat Knight of the Trolley, in pure relief, cursed woman and all her blasted folly. His oaths were strong and picturesque, but all forgave the curses, which I would never dare repeat in these most proper verses. A white-gloved cop now waved his hand; his face was not serene, and shouted, "Hey! Why this delay? Move on! You're stopping traffic." The motor man in anger said: "I'm sensible and human, but hanged if I can understand the fool ways of a woman!" While in a flight of red-hot words he let his rude tongue reveal, the smiling-faced conductor bawled, "Don't women beat the devil!"

Are you ready to help clear the way

THERE is every probability that the necessary amount of coal to keep our homes warm and to keep the wheels of industry going will be mined and will be transported by rail and waterways to the cities and towns where it is needed.

But this fuel will have to be transported in less than half the normal time, which will probably force embargoes on certain classes of freight—particularly short haul freight.

With abnormal fuel shipments, bumper crops to be transported and a bigger volume of general business than last year, we are facing a serious transportation crisis. Adequate provision must be made for it now.

Motor trucks must accomplish more than ever in delivering many small split shipments of coal; in hauling coal from local yards by consumers when dealers are too rushed to deliver; in making short hauls that the railroads may refuse; in clearing terminals with record speed; in relieving the strain on available rolling stock whenever and wherever possible.

If your trucks need overhauling, make arrangements immediately for that purpose.

If you need additional equipment, buy it now.

Even if you are contracting for your transportation, you should own one or more trucks to forestall a serious situation, or make sure that your hauling contractor realizes what is facing him during the coming months of September, October, November, December, January, February and March.

Many a business house that would otherwise be tied up will be able to get coal and make short haul shipments if it owns trucks.

One Union to An Industry Proposed.
By the Associated Press.
OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 7.—The Nebraska Federation of Labor yesterday adopted a resolution for the amalgamation of the unions in each industry "so that there shall remain but one union for each industry." The resolution called on the American Federation of Labor to devise ways and means for this amalgamation.

PASTOR'S WIFE KILLED
ON WAY TO CHURCH

Tractor Car Hits Mrs. Cora
Poole's Auto at East Madison Street Crossing.

Mrs. Cora Poole, 36 years old, of Madison, Ill., was killed at 1:30 p. m. yesterday in East Madison when an automobile she was driving was struck by the northbound Alton Limited of the Alton Granite & St. Louis Traction Co. at the Rhodes street crossing. She was en route to a meeting at the First Baptist Church of Madison, of which her husband, the Rev. W. K. Poole, is pastor.

Witnesses said the engine of the automobile apparently "stalled" when halfway across the track. Mrs. Poole was alone in the automobile. The limited struck the front end of the car and dragged it about 50 yards, witnesses said. Mrs. Poole's head was crushed and her body badly mangled.

The Rev. Poole and his family came to Madison three months ago from Carrollton, Ill. An inquest will be held today and the body tonight will be sent to Mrs. Poole's former home, Pisgah, Ind., for burial.

OPENS BOX TO GET GEMS AND

Diamonds and $2000 Missing From Package in Safety Deposit
Box.

When Miss Dora Diamond, residing above a dry goods store she conducts with her mother, Mrs. Yetta Diamond, at 1022 Cass Avenue, opened their safety deposit box at a downtown bank yesterday to take out a pair of 2 1/2 carat diamond earrings and $200, she found, on unwrapping the paper parcel in question, only a stale doughnut.

Miss Diamond has asked police for aid and offered $100 reward for recovery of the earrings. She told police her mother determining, for safe keeping, to take the diamonds and money to the bank on Aug. 31 last, wrapped them in a piece of paper and laid the package on the kitchen table upstairs while she went into another room to dress. On returning, Mrs. Diamond picked up what she thought was the same package and went to the bank.

The Diamonds believe someone either slipped into the kitchen or stole the package or that Mrs. Diamond, in her hurry, took up the wrong package. Neither can remember having doughnuts on Aug. 31.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION WILL DISCUSS AMENDMENTS TODAY

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 7.—Actual work of the forty-seventh triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States was faced by the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies assembling today, following the organization and election of officers yesterday. Consideration of amendments to the constitution adopted at the last convention was the first business.

At yesterday's sessions 115 Bishops of a possible 125 and 610 members of the House of Delegates were present.

Bishop William Cabell Brown of Virginia was elected chairman of the House of Bishops yesterday, succeeding Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of Tennessee. Bishop Gailor had served six years. The Rev. Mr. Charles L. Pardee of New York was elected secretary of the House of Bishops, succeeding the Rev. Mr. George F. Nelson, who retired owing to advanced years.

SLAIN GIRL STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—"Homicide; skull crushed; found floating in Missouri River," is the epitaph of the 12-year-old girl who lies in a wooden coffin in undertaking rooms here, which was written on her death certificate by Dr. H. E. Moss, Deputy Coroner, yesterday.

The body wore a blue gingham dress, was wrapped in a gray blanket, stuffed in a burlap sack and was recovered from the Missouri River by some boys who were fishing. Beyond that police are in the dark. Throughout yesterday the slain girl lay under a strong light in the undertaking rooms, awaiting identification. More than 50 persons, seeking lost children, looked at her disfigured, childlike face and said sadly: "She is not my child. I am certain of it."

Tried to Cash Check to Help Husband

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—A plea that she had attempted to cash a check for $519 to obtain funds to take her injured husband back to her home in Unionville, Mo., won freedom today for Mrs. Winnie B. Wingo in Municipal Court. The young woman said that her husband, Harry Wingo, had been hurt in an explosion. The check was taken from the office of a former employer who asked for leniency for the young woman.

Joplin Depot in Wage Dispute

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The right of the Joplin Union Depot Co., Joplin, Mo., to apply United States Railroad Labor Board wage decrease number 147 and 1074 was questioned before the board today by William Davis, chairman of the railway and steamship clerks employed by the company, on the ground that the company argued it had the right to apply the decrease, inasmuch as it was included in decision No. 21, which increased wages of its employees.

New Head for School for Deaf.
By the Associated Press.
SALEM, Ore., Sept. 7.—E. S. Tillingshast, for more than 17 years superintendent of the Oregon State School for the Deaf, has resigned to accept the superintendency of the Missouri State School for the Deaf at Fulton, Mo. It was announced today.

$8,000,000 ORDER PLACED BY FRISCO

Includes 50 Engines and 1000 Coal Cars for Delivery Before Jan. 1.

Locomotive and freight car equipment totaling $8,000,000 has been purchased by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway for delivery before the first of the year, J. M. Kurn, president, announced yesterday. The order includes 15 mountain type passenger locomotives, 35 Mikado type freight engines, to be delivered during November, and 1000 steel coal cars, of the 60-ton hopper type, to be delivered as soon as possible.

In addition to this order the Frisco has asked for bids on $300 cars for the freight service, the cost of which has not been determined. This includes 1500 all-steel gondola coal cars, of 55-ton capacity; 1500 steel underframe automobile box cars and 300 steel underframe stock cars.

Within the next two weeks delivery is expected on 14 steel passenger coaches and chair cars, costing $500,000. These cars are part of a $6,000,000 order for engines, passenger and freight cars and other equipment placed by the Frisco early this year.

Kurn also announced that in addition to repair work handled in the Frisco shops at Springfield, Mo., the car shops there have turned out 97 new freight cars in the last two months.

Addition of the 50 locomotives just ordered will give the Frisco more tractive power than any other line in the Southwest, Kurn said.

The double track being laid between St. Louis and Valley Park, Mo., will be completed by December, Kurn announced. This, with some double track work near Kansas City, formed the initial section of a Frisco program to double track the entire system.

$50,000,000 Increase in Terminal Capital Stock Proposed

Proposals to increase the capital stock of the Terminal Railroad Association from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 and to increase the bonded indebtedness from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 will be submitted to a vote of the stockholders at a special meeting Oct. 9.

Henry Miller, president of the association, declined today to discuss the specific details of the proposed expansion in capital stock and bonds. Maturing of present indebtedness of the company in bonds was indicated, necessitating refinancing. Miller said the object of the expansion could not be outlined until after the stockholders met, his only comment being "the present fiscal arrangement has matured; the plan, therefore, is to provide means to finance future improvements of the property."

Stockholders are the 15 participating railroad lines. The stock of the Terminal is said to be held on a non-dividend paying basis.

NEW STEEL FIRM WILL ERECT HUGE PIG IRON PLANT IN UTAH

Corporation Capitalized at $20,000,000 Takes Over Many Properties of Western Firms.

By the Associated Press. SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 7.—Construction at once of a $7,500,000 pig iron plant in Utah will be the first step to follow formation of the Pacific Steel Corporation, capitalized at $20,000,000, whose incorporation papers are on file today in Delaware. The new concern is financed by San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle and Salt Lake City banking institutions.

Complete transition of steel from iron ore to the fabricated product is one of the corporation's objects. The concern will take over the properties of the Pacific Coast Steel Co., which has plants in Seattle, Portland and San Francisco, the Los Angeles plant of the Southern California Iron and Steel Co. and those of other West coast steel companies together with the iron ore and coal deposits of the Milner Corporation in Utah.

"At the present time there is no pig iron manufactured west of the Rocky Mountains," said T. C. Gregory, attorney for the company, "and plants here are dependent upon the East for their supply of both pig iron and coke."

ILLINOIS PUBLIC IS CAUTIONED REGARDING RAILROAD PURCHASES

Secretary of State Gives Advice to Persons Considering Buying Shares in Unfamiliar Concerns.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 7.—Unusual activity of alleged blue sky corporations has led Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson to sound a warning to investors to beware of stock in corporations about which they know nothing. Investment in securities becoming more general in the last few years had given a rich field for operations to fake concerns, he explained.

"The securities law which became effective July 1, 1919," he said, "is proving very successful in cleaning up blue sky operations in Illinois, but it cannot control the offering and sale of securities by corporations located outside of the State. A bill introduced by Representative Dennison of Illinois, is now pending in Congress to remedy this condition, but in the meantime a great deal of questionable paper is being floated in Illinois by use of the mails and advertising mediums in other states."

MACK DENIES SEPARATION

Actor Says Wife Has Only Come on Visits to Mother.

By the Associated Press. OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 7.—Willard Mack, playwright and actor, said here yesterday that he had misunderstood the action of Mrs. Beatrice Stone Mack, his fourth wife, when she left on a moment's notice for Los Angeles a few days ago, to take her children south to see her mother, with the result that an impression had gone out of an intended separation. No separation was intended, he said, and Mrs. Mack will rejoin him here.

NET TOURNEY ENTRIES TO CLOSE TOMORROW

The closing date for entries in the annual city tennis championship has been extended until tomorrow. The Municipal Tennis Association is in charge of the event and President Schwarz of that organization hopes that more of the clubs will enter players in the tournament.

As previously announced there will be events for men and women in singles and doubles. Players residing within the territory of the St. Louis District may enter the play provided they held membership in some club belonging to the association.

Entries are being received at Leacock's and Spalding's. The fee is $1.50 per player in the singles and $2 a team in the doubles. Only several first 10 ranking stars had entered the city tournament up to last night. Fred Justice, Ted Dwyer, Ted Heuerman and Woody Brown have failed to enter so far. Play will open Saturday afternoon.

MICHIGAN GETS STAR HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 7.—At least one star prep school athlete will join the ranks of Michigan undergraduates this year, according to word received today from Karl Kelly of Cadillac, the best all-around athlete in that part of Michigan. He will enter Michigan this fall.

Not since Cadillac sent "Bottles" Thompson to Michigan has such a bright prospect been sent to Ann Arbor from Northern Michigan. According to advance notices, Kelly is a three sport star: Basketball, track and football. He weighs 165 at present, but will take on more weight in the next few years. He has a mark of 101-5 seconds in the century dash, 22-5 in the 250-yard dash, plays halfback on the football team, and was selected as member of the all-State Class B basketball quintet last season.

Guilford Beaten By Sweetser in National Amateur

Former St. Louis Eliminates Champion in Brilliant Match, 4 Up and 3 to Play.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 7.—Jesse Sweetser, Metropolitan champion of New York, who received his early training over the links of the Normandy Golf Club in St. Louis, today eliminated Champion Jesse Guilford in the third round of the national amateur tournament. The score was 4 up and 3 to play.

The youthful New Yorker played sterling golf in the early part of the match and at the twenty-seventh hole was 5 up on the title-holder with nine holes to go. The Boston "Siege Gun" rallied strongly in the last six holes, but Sweetser's early advantage was too much and Guilford succumbed at the thirty-third green when Sweetser halved the hole with him.

Bobby Jones of Atlanta, ran true to form when he defeated W. F. McPhail, of Boston, 4 up and 3 to play. McPhail held the Southern championship even for the greater part of the match but in the home stretch, Bobby outstripped his opponent and finished with a good lead.

At the 27th green, McPhail was only one down and was playing strongly.

Ruddy Knepper was 4 up on Cyril Tolley, lone British survivor, at the 27th hole.

Guilford Better Now Than in 1921--Ouimet Playing in Rain Unfair, Chick Evans Says

Soggy Fairways and Wet Club Grips Take Away Advantage Skill Should Give and Bring in Luck as Factor, Chicagoan Writes—"Siege Gun" Putting in Brilliant Form.

By Francis Ouimet.

FRANCIS OUIMET

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 7.—The victory in yesterday's matches earned their places in the third round entirely through the soundness of their golf, and those of us who passed out of the picture can attribute our defeats to the steadiness of our opponents. The first match of the day was the one between Jesse Sweetser and Willie Hunter, the British star, entered from the Westchester-Biltmore Club in New York.

Sweetser has been playing fine golf all year and he was looked upon as the great hunter's great battle. This he did, too, for he carried the fight all the way, leaving few if any openings for Hunter to take advantage of.

This kept the latter struggling against birdies and par figures all day long. Sweetser ended the morning round five up, having gone around in 73 with sixes at the third and last holes, both of which he par four. This, of course, shows the strength of Sweetser's golf, and keeping at it after luncheon he romped home a seven and six winner.

Guilford a Fine Putter.

Jesse Guilford had an old score to settle with Reggie Lewis for a defeat the latter pinned upon him at the Apawamis Club earlier in the season. From the moment Lewis topped his first tee shot until the match concluded he was fighting against a stern player who was out to win and win quickly.

Guilford is a wonderful man on and around the greens. He ranks largely superiorly in the morning and Fowles felt sure that Travis in this respect. In the morning he never looked like missing a putt and in the afternoon in the pouring rain he shifted from his putter to a driving iron once he got onto the greens, and Reggie said he thought Big Jesse could put even better with a driving iron than he could with a putter.

Guilford, as I have been saying right along, is looking better than ever, and the more I see him play, the more convinced I am that he is a finer golfer now than he was in St. Louis last year.

Chick Evans' victory over Bill Fowles was not so much of a surprise, but the margin of it was quite a surprise. These two have fought many a golf game on the links and I supposed the victories and defeats have been about alike for each. Chick was playing superbly in the morning and Fowles felt sure that he was no more than three down with five holes to be played. From then on Bill erred often. Chick never, with the result that Chick won each of the last five holes to give him a lead of eight holes.

Evans was around in 70, which is unbeatable golf. At the turn in the afternoon he had added two more so when Fowles was defeated ten and nine it represented the biggest defeat he has ever had recorded against him. For all of that he is a wonderful sportsman and though out of further competition he is a credit to the game wherever it is played.

Knepper Defeats Ouimet.

Rudolph Knepper, the Sioux City golfer, was the underdog in the match being played before the spectators' class for the remainder of the week. He was simply superb. We had a fine match all day. In the morning the play was exceedingly close with Knepper doing most of the forcing and me continually in the position of having to pull him back over one hole or two. At times I succeeded in bringing him back to even terms, but he was not to be denied. He led by two holes at the turn in the morning. We were square at the twelfth. He won the thirteenth where Knepper, who was a birdie to the hole, was a birdie to the hole and he won it. Starting out with a lead of one hole he took the third hole which increased his lead to two holes since we halved the other eight.

A long putt further handicapped my chances when Knepper, who was a birdie to the hole, was a birdie to the hole and he won it. Starting out with a lead of one hole he took the third hole which increased his lead to two holes since we halved the other eight.

"CHICK" EVANS

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 7.—Chipping to a green again became a matter of making port for the players here who ambled through the second day of matches in the national amateur championship, rain falling in torrents during the afternoon play. The day of the weather extremes, as the sun, during the morning round, chased the little red runner in the thermometer up into the nineties.

Several upsets in the day's play undoubtedly were due to the weather. Among these was the fall of Harrison Johnson of St. Paul, before William McPhail, a young Boston player, who thus becomes the outstanding "unknown" of this year's championship.

McPhail is rated about fifth among Boston golfers, and his only accomplishment heretofore was the winning of the Herbert Jaques cup.

Johnson could not maintain his grips during the downpour, which forthrightly reflects that championship play during a downpour of rain is not a true test of golf skill. The common supposition that "it is as fair for one as for another" is not founded in facts. Golf is a game of skill, and when wet and sloppy conditions enter into the game, the matter of chance and circumstance enters into it. I think the championship rounds should be on a dry course so that the most skilled of players could have fullest opportunity to employ their skill.

Skill Replaced by Chance.

The object of practice and training for championship play is to acquire skill, not to become proficient under slippery and soggy conditions. Perhaps some day we may have a ruling that will eliminate such playing necessities as the matches of yesterday. I hoped so when I saw Francis Ouimet and Rudy Knepper go to the first green in the afternoon round, either of these stars is capable of putting his ball on the green on his second shot; but what happened? They were both short. Francis on one side of the green, Knepper across the way from him. Both in rough; then Francis pitched and his ball landed in a trap beyond the green.

Knepper pitched and he landed in a trap on the other side of the green. When the rain thus affects these two so disastrously, what must it do to the lesser players? I think the championship rounds should be on a dry course so that the most skilled of players could have fullest opportunity to employ their skill.

Fowles "Overgolfed."

Harry Vardon pointed out some years ago that the golfer can absorb too much golf exactly as the boxer can absorb too much boxing. I witnessed proof of it at one of the greens Bobby Jones' father, who is always with him at the championships, attempted to lay his cigar, but it hit his finger instead. It was unfortunate that the meeting of these great players, Jones and Gardner, was under such wet conditions.

Tealoy was one up. He promptly stood back and watched Aulbach hole two long putts to finish one at the end of their morning round. Cyril told me a luncheon time that Aulbach had holed eight long putts that varied in length from 10 feet to 40 feet. He also said that he might have been 10 up had there not been a single putt dropped, because in each instance he was well inside his opponent of the green only to be left with a long putt for a half when Aulbach would hole a long putt. They played closely again in the afternoon round, but this time Tealoy finished strongly and in spite of Aulbach's long-distance putting Tealoy won by three and two.

He also said that he might have been 10 up had there not been a single putt dropped, because in each instance he was well inside his opponent of the green only to be left with a long putt for a half when Aulbach would hole a long putt. They played closely again in the afternoon round, but this time Tealoy finished strongly and in spite of Aulbach's long-distance putting Tealoy won by three and two.

Tealoy was one up. He promptly stood back and watched Aulbach hole two long putts to finish one at the end of their morning round. Cyril told me a luncheon time that Aulbach had holed eight long putts that varied in length from 10 feet to 40 feet. Managing the Masher

What Would YOU Do if One Should Annoy You?
By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB.

(Copyright, 1922.)

The other day, a young woman took matters into her own hands and assailed a would-be masher on the street until a policeman came and the man was arrested.

She appeared before the court and said, "Don't believe that there isn't rough-and-tumble mashing and caveman lovemaking on the sidewalks every day in the week. Why, it is done all the time. I know."

The Judge, after hearing the case, fined the young man $25, and he got all the arraignment that was coming to him.

I say, more power to this young woman. It takes courage to do a thing like this. She has acted not only to protect herself, but her entire sex.

If a few more mashers were treated in this manner there would soon be an end to overzealousness in this connection, but because young women fear a possible scandal, they try to get away from such a situation as best they can.

Sometimes I cannot help feeling that woman owes it to herself and every woman as a civic duty to do her part in bringing to justice such men who try to molest women.

And the girl who does take the initiative to go through with it until he is punished is indeed to be appreciated and applauded. It is easy enough to run away from a thing of this kind, perhaps, and be glad that you have got out of it, but one cannot help admire the fine spirit of the young woman who will call a policeman and take the matter to a Magistrate.

Woman, after all, never got anything until she did stand up for what was her just due. The history of the ages shows that she has had to fight every step of the way for all the equalization that is now here.

And the only recourse she has, besides the milk of human kindness still flows, and any good man still appealed to will realize that his own sister or wife or daughter might be in a similar predicament, and give the aid requested.

The way to manage mashers is to have them punished and not to let them go scot free after they have been offensive.

And the only recourse she has, besides the milk of human kindness still flows, and any good man still appealed to will realize that his own sister or wife or daughter might be in a similar predicament, and give the aid requested.

cause she cannot give him the good whipping he deserves, is to take him where she will get legal justice at least.

Mrs. Grundy, of course, will say that if women did not encourage these men to flirt by flirting the masher would not exist, but I venture to say that in the majority of cases, in fact nearly all of them, such obnoxious attentions are entirely unsolicited and actually thrust upon innocent women.

Furthermore, I wish it were possible to impose a jail sentence instead of only a fine. A young man would soon have time to reflect on his conduct if he had to spend a few days in jail.

I have also seen a splendid man in these places rise to the occasion and settle such molester in an unmistakable way.

I have always gloried in the chivalrous display by man for the protection of women in such cases. I am confident that any man, when appealed to by a woman, will defend her when the occasion warrants, and no young woman should hesitate to call on a bystander if a policeman is not near.

Besides, the milk of human kindness still flows, and any good man still appealed to will realize that his own sister or wife or daughter might be in a similar predicament, and give the aid requested.

The way to manage mashers is to have them punished and not to let them go scot free after they have been offensive.

CHAPTER XVII.

"WHAT did you do with Q?" Heloise's swift young voice flashed almost visibly across the twilight darkness of the room where Miss Selda still sat.

Sunset had come and gone, the afterglow had risen from floor to ceiling and had faded out as though under a fine sifting of gray dust. The locust voices droned endlessly. There began to be a faint rustle of tired leaves as a breeze sprang up from the ruffled leaden river.

Leio followed her first question with another, more doubtfully keyed. "Are you still here, Aunt Selda?" "I am still here. Don't light anything. It has been so hot."

"Aunt Selda—Where is Q?" "He has gone."

Heloise stood before her aunt, trying to see more clearly the white, narrow oval of her face, which looked like a pale mask with two black holes.

"I have sent him away for good—for his own good, probably. I told him that I did not consider him an acceptable suitor for you, Heloise; that neither his birth, education, nor history warranted any pretensions of that sort."

"Aunt Selda!" The narrow hand on the thin arm was lifted like an ivory hand on the end of a stick. "Don't raise your voice, please! Did you intend to marry Q. T. Kinwydden, Heloise?"

"But—Aunt Selda—this is so dramatic—so ridiculous. I—I had no plans at all about Q. He is my friend—I—I promised him my friendship."

"Was that what he wanted, Heloise?"

"Oh, I think so. Yes. You know what men are. They want whatever they can get, of course. But Q. can't bear thinking what you must have done to him. And all ways before you've been so kind to him. He must have thought you were—you and he—such great friends!"

I don't form great friendships with young men, my dear. It is kinder to check Q now than later. You won't see him again."

"I will. I must. I tell you, I promised him my friendship."

Her face, with lips and cheeks vivid as though they had been painted, grew out of the dusk to Miss Selda's vision. The girl, so cool and languid and detached, had been stung out of her indifference, dangerously stung.

Miss Selda stirred uneasily in her high-backed chair. "You are rash in your promises of friendship, Heloise."

This recalled to Heloise Grinscombe another promise. "I think I am old enough to choose my own friends, Aunt Selda. Other girls nowadays are not kept under such minute control." She laughed angrily. "Q says you have me whipped. I think he means 'I'm a coward; I am a coward.'"

"Never be that!" Miss Selda spoke sharply. Heloise moved to one of the windows. The breeze blew her sheer dress back against her body; the faint lingering lights of the summer darkness just revealed her, gold and white and green.

"I promised my friendship to my cousin, Mary Grinscombe," she said without turning. "But I have been too much of a coward to keep my word."

Miss Selda stood up, walked to the wall, and switched on the light. "Where have you seen your cousin, Mary Grinscombe?" There was no sign of weakness in her voice and carriage now; she was very angry and very formidable. Heloise turned and showed a face strained with fright and blinking, rebellious eyes.

"The day I cut Q's wrist I took him out to a house where Mr. Sales' car was standing. And it was my Uncle Henry's house and Mary opened the door." The memory of that small proud person diverted Leio from her panic. "But you don't know Mary. Aunt Selda—she—she's splendid!"

"She must be." "Truly. You'd love her. She's so intelligent, so bred!"

Again, and more dryly, "She must be," said Miss Selda.

Leio's temper rose. It was a Grinscombe temper, a pampered one. "Why shouldn't she be? She's your own brother's daughter!"

"The daughter of a drunkard and the housemaid—he seduced!" Heloise put her hands over her ears. She had never been told Henry Grinscombe's history. Seeing that her aunt was speaking again, she went down her hands and, going to a sofa, sat facing her with tight lips and scarlet cheeks. So she listened to a cold, clear recital of the events that preceded Henry's disinheritor.

"Have you ever seen your Uncle Henry? One such sight ought to be enough."

"Yes, I have seen him. I think he's pathetic and rather beautiful," Miss Selda laughed. "Your cowboy has been making a sentimental out of you, my dear. It's just as well I have dismissed him."

"I have not dismissed him," said Heloise. "I doubt if after what I said to him he will wait for any further—dismissals."

"Oh, Aunt Selda! What did you say to him?" Heloise wailed. "Enough, I think."

Heloise smote one slim palm with a slim fist. She sat thinking and with an effort calmed herself. She seemed to dismiss Q for the moment.

"I am not sentimental, Aunt Selda," she began, composedly enough. "You ought to know me better. And I never cared a penny really about Mary, until I met her. Now I can't help caring. It's a case for common justice. I have everything and she has nothing. And yet she is as close a relation to you as I am. And she's so much finer. Mary is—well, there's something great about her."

"So that you would like to play the Lady Bountiful to her, as well as to Q. You have a gift for condescension, Leio. I've often noticed it."

The phrases stung the girl's tenderest vanities and she moved quickly toward the door. "I am going to see Mary now," she said.

"You don't suppose I shall allow you to take the car for such a purpose?"

"Very well, I'll walk."

"Heloise!" The narrow hands were lifted and fell, their gesture accompanied by an incredulous, exasperated note of laughter. "Oh, go by all means. A five-mile walk on a hot evening home! That should take some of the condescension out of you. Your temper may carry you as far as the gate. If it takes you any farther, it will make a fool of you, and that is usually a beneficial experience. You'll find yourself involved in considerable discomfort, and you will do Mary a very ill turn with me."

"What do you mean? You have never done her a good turn, have you? Never intended to do anything for her?"

"It is not your business, of course. My dear, but, in justice to myself, I will tell you that at various times I have lent my brother rather large sums through the agency of Dr. Sales."

"You mean that Mary thinks so?"

"Yes, that he has lent them."

"How perfectly insufferable for her to be under obligations to that man!"

Miss Selda flinched, and Heloise snatched up a wide hat as she went, darted out into the dusk. Anger gave a spurring vigor to her steps. What a five-mile walk to her trained young muscles! In Aunt Selda's youth, walking was an unaccustomed exertion, but Aunt Selda did not belong to the swimming, golfing and tennis-playing, dancing generation with which Heloise had been trained to compete. She walked freely with a tall, lithe swing, and anger made her unconscious of her speed. She was in revolution, a red riot of revolution, and she glided in her new sensation. She glided in her new sensation. She glided in her new sensation.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Solving Housework Problems Economically with Skilled Labor.

THE solution of the servant problem may be summed up in these few words: Skilled labor represented by specialized part-time helpers. It has taken a long time to find this fact out, but only a thinking woman, she would not go back to old conditions if she could. Cheap and ignorant labor is the most expensive in the world, and women who have not informed themselves of all points of housework management cannot train help who are equally ignorant, so the domestic help problem has remained unsolved. In the ascending wage scale, poor and good help are making the same demands. The only trial enables one to pick the most capable in the possible in the line of applicants for work.

The Part-Time Helper.

The old way of training daughters to follow in their mothers' footsteps in the management of households is not sufficient in these days. They must learn housework as an economist, a budget system, and better ways of dispensing the income. An up-to-date domestic science course, however, places a young woman in a position to appreciate the value of money, teaches her to experience her mother has to impart. Modern conditions need to be treated with modern methods. First, a household system is needed, then the understanding and ability to get it working.

The demand has not as yet created a sufficient supply of skilled part-time helpers, but it is growing. Only the best workers see what a benefit the new order of things is going to be for them. As for the housewife, under the new system she gets just what she wishes done when she wants it without having to board and lodge the worker or be annoyed by her needs and desires. In other words, she pays for what she needs and gets her money's worth.

The household method by which the home is run determines the time when extra help is needed, and just what is to be done. Sometimes the extra helper gets breakfast and cleans up afterward, then returns and gets dinner, or perhaps they come in after breakfast and clean up the house or apartment, giving as many hours as are needed, even doing the marketing or other errands if the housewife so desires. Most of the women who take up the work of part-time helpers are above the servant class. They have perfected their ability to do the class of work which they like best, and which pays them best. If one likes to cook and does it well, she goes in for marketing and cooking meals. Another like housework, and does not cook; a third likes cleaning bric-a-brac and silver; still another prefers mending and repairing household lines and clothing, and another fine washing and ironing of linens, blouses, baby things and the finest of table linens. The time and expense to be spent on the work depend on the need of the housewife.

Advantages to Weigh.

Having installed as many household conveniences to lighten labor and save steps as can be afforded, a woman who is a good household manager, and who is blessed with good health, is quite independent, and really needs the services of the part-time helper only for a special branch of her work. Some may argue: "What a nuisance, having so many persons to deal with instead of just one servant." True, but one servant does one or more things fairly well, while the extra helper is an expert in the line for which she or he is hired. They also come when they are wanted, and depart when they are finished, and are not boarders and lodgers. They are not food wasters, and they require no laundry work done.

A woman with a small city apartment has had a reliable colored man come in one morning a week, and for an hour or two on another day, for odd jobs, for the last four years, and she is well satisfied with the arrangement. He cleans all the rugs, washes and oils the floors, washes windows and looking-glasses, cleans silver, turns mattresses, beats pillows, dusts, polishes furniture and, in fact, all and more than all that an ordinary maid could or would do.

He wears neat overalls and rubber-heeled shoes, and is quick and quiet about his work. He is strong enough to handle the big jobs and gentle enough for the light ones. He attacks a problem with decision, and does not have to be watched. The experiment is worth a trial. It is not hard to get what you want in the way of help if your plans are on a business basis.

PARIS—The three-quarter length coat today has been adopted by Paris from the American mode, but Paris gives it her own distinctive touch. Hence a stunning ragon of perline in marine blue has a wide beige braid piping the edges and outlining the big, triangular pockets which fasten with large, triangular buttons of wood.

PARIS—The gown which the Queen of Rumania wore at a recent fete is being adopted here as an evening costume. The Queen's gown, created by Charlotte, was a rather dark green satin brocaded with gold, above an underdress of exquisite white lace.

LONDON—There is an attempt to establish a vogue for felt hats trimmed with flowers and some of the West End milliners are today displaying these hats for early autumn wear. The unusual feature of these new hats is the brim, which is of medium width.

The light hair is important, because the gown was in shades of pink, which are best set off by hair of the ash blonde type. Simply made, the gown was completely covered with chiffon petals from hem to neck.

PARIS—The three-quarter length coat today has been adopted by Paris from the American mode, but Paris gives it her own distinctive touch. Hence a stunning ragon of perline in marine blue has a wide beige braid piping the edges and outlining the big, triangular pockets which fasten with large, triangular buttons of wood.

PARIS—The gown which the Queen of Rumania wore at a recent fete is being adopted here as an evening costume. The Queen's gown, created by Charlotte, was a rather dark green satin brocaded with gold, above an underdress of exquisite white lace.

LONDON—There is an attempt to establish a vogue for felt hats trimmed with flowers and some of the West End milliners are today displaying these hats for early autumn wear. The unusual feature of these new hats is the brim, which is of medium width.

NEW YORK—The summer girl who wants to prove that she has been on a vacation is responsible for today's new fashion in rouge. Not only does she give an extra touch of bright red to her cheeks, a touch justified for at least the first week of her return from sunny beach or countryside, but she also reaches a V in her neck. The one thing she neglects is the tip of her nose.

LONDON—The petal gown reached its apotheosis in a dance frock worn at a country house fete Wednesday by a famous, light-haired beauty. The light hair is important, because the gown was in shades of pink, which are best set off by hair of the ash blonde type. Simply made, the gown was completely covered with chiffon petals from hem to neck.

After-Dinner Tricks

stood in the doorway. Mary could not believe it until, lighting a gas jet in the hall, she definitely made out a white, tired, laughing face under a wide green hat.

"Heloise! But you look so hot and tired!"

Heloise pulled off her hat and pushed back from wet temples the clinking golden hair.

"I walked every step of the way to see you, Mary. It's a revolution."

Mary led the way into her sitting room, pulled down the shades, and lit the lamp. Heloise flung herself down in the wicker chair.

"What time is it?" she asked, faintly. There were no signs of that late dinner.

"Eight o'clock or later. I'll get you some lemonade. Heloise, do you mean that you came to see me against Miss Grinscombe's wishes—that you quarreled with her on my account?"

"On your account and Q's," Heloise fingered her hat confusedly and lifted eyes that were embarrassed to Mary's gentle sternness.

"But I don't like it a bit!"

The trick is done by the left thumb, which is secretly bent in, as shown in Fig. 2, under the tip of the left little finger. The tip of the finger is pressed firmly against the thumb, and when the thumb is shot outward it imparts a sudden force to the muscle of the little finger, which is sufficient to flip the coin.

If the right hand is placed over the left thumb, as though to steady the hand, the sudden movement of the thumb will be completely concealed from view. The trick can be done when the coin is placed on other knuckles, but the little finger is usually the most responsive.

UTY AGEANT ENTRANTS

Upon the beauty and charm of young women, Washington, D.C., is the scene of the pageant being staged this week at Atlantic City.

The contestants are, left to right: Miss Evelyn C. Lewis; "Miss Virginia," in private life Miss Kitty Molineux, the Quaker City's most beautiful; Irma Knabe of that city, and "Miss Virginia," who is Miss Virginia Edwards.

Melancholy and Laughter

By WINNIE JACK.

Too fond—thats what we are. We are girls are. And now they want us to be happy, or "natural," and it is used by Miss Virginia Edwards, a summer student at the University of California.

Miss Los-Chilova is a Russian girl, a clever, young and usually good-looking.

Besides, she looks the part, now her name would have been something like that. We are to stay poor, if we are to get out of poverty.

Personality? She's made up of it. She's a fairly sparkling girl. She likes America very much. How can the American girl be so "jocund"?

"Your girls laugh so much," says, "and they joke and tease, and call one another names and they make fun of everybody—even, I fear, of Russia. In Russia we are very serious. We are serious, yes, even the young girls.

"When a few of us are together in the afternoon, or in the evening, or in the morning, we speak of the realities of life. Yes, we speak of these things. And in Russia, young girl marries, she goes on her profession and the young men on with his and we are about it. Here in America, though—all the time you laugh and cannot understand it."

There now, it's really true. Kind of thing you read about in Russian books. Life, somber, bitter, cruel, never anything but tomorrow's breakfast—treat the family with Kellogg's Corn Flakes and fresh fruit! See there is a big pitcher of cold milk ready! With each big and little family member to plenty, for Kellogg's are the perfect warm food!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are not only delicious and nutritious, but they're wonderfully satisfying and refreshing. They give stomachs a chance to rest in warm weather because they are so easily. Eat Kellogg's regularly and get from so much heavy food how much better every the house feels!

upon Kellogg's Corn Flakes in the RED and GREEN packages that bears the signature of K. Kellogg, originator of Flakes! None are genuine!

KELLOGG'S CRUMBLIES and KELLOGG'S BRAN, cooked and krumbled

we are Americans, but sorrow is a natural part of life and should be borne naturally, not with bitter, sardonic hatred.

What a grand time the Russians do have being melancholy.

"Boo Scars Baby!"

I never read a Russian novel, but I think of a little fat chubby girl I know. Her father is a cavalry officer and up in the garret of her home there is a large, tall pair of cavalry boots.

Whenever things are dull and the newest doll is new no longer, Chubby Cheeks climbs to the attic and tip-toes to where the boots are standing. Into the boots she gazes and down the stairs she scurries, there to announce in a triumphant tremolo:

"Boo—in boots, scares baby!"

And how she does love to be scared—the dear little goose!

No, Varia, we're not going to scare ourselves about life and reality and all the rest of it—no matter how high the boots are, or how dark the garret. We don't want to be scared and sad and miserable, we want to be happy, and we are, most of us.

Don't be sorry for us—we like it—really we do.

CORN PUDDING

FROM leftover green corn cut the corn from four ears of cold corn and run it through the food chopper; then add two well-beaten eggs with one cup of milk; season with salt and a little pepper, dot bits of butter over the top, place in pudding dish and bake half an hour. Nice served in custard cups; also a nice vegetable dish for luncheon.

BEEF JELLY

ROUND of beef, ½ pound; gelatin, ¼ teaspoon; cold water, 1 teaspoon; salt, ¼ teaspoon; boiling water, 1½ tablespoons.

Express juices from the meat, after searing lightly. Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in the boiling water, add salt and beef juice, place in cool part of kitchen until set.

PIE CRUST

SIFT two cups Presto flour. Mix in two-thirds cup lard with finger tips. Cut in water with knife; the quantity of water used depends on the richness of the lard. Use just enough to moisten, about one-third cup. Roll thin. This makes two crusts.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Little Mr. Smarty.

By Thornton W. Burgess

THE four young Foxes, the children of Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy, looked very much alike, but they were not alike. One was smarter than the others, but he never seemed to think he was smarter, and he never tried to show off. His brother was just a little the biggest and he liked to bully his brother and two sisters and to show off whenever he had the chance. Of the two sisters one had a very quick temper, which was forever getting her into trouble, while the other was good-nature itself.

When Mrs. Reddy warned the young Foxes always to be polite to a Skunk, it was the little Fox who liked to show off who said, "Poof! Those little fellows are not more than half my size. I could kill one just as easy." His mother had promptly explained about the little scent guns each member of the Skunk family carries. Afterward, they talked it all over together.

"It was a good thing that mother told us," said the smartest little Fox. "Now we'll know enough to keep out of the way when we meet a member of the Skunk family."

"I'm not afraid," boasted his brother, who liked to show off. "Mother was just trying to scare us. She can't scare me. The teeth and claws of someone bigger than I are the only things I'm afraid of. If ever I meet one of those Skunks I'll teach him a lesson he won't forget in a hurry. You won't see me stepping aside for a Skunk again."

It was the very next day that Reddy and Mrs. Reddy left the four young Foxes to play about their home while they went hunting. Hardly were they out of sight when who should come along but Mrs. Skunk and behind her five little Skunks. The four little Foxes sat down at a safe distance and watched them pass, and it was to be noticed that the one who had boasted that he wasn't afraid took pains to get back of the others. His sisters noticed it and as soon as the Skunk family had disappeared they began to tease him.

"Why did you sit down so far away?" asked one.

"Why didn't you catch one of those young Skunks?" asked the other. "I'm honest enough to admit that I didn't dare catch one myself, but I thought you who are not afraid would catch one for us."

"I wasn't hungry," replied little Mr. Smarty. "If I had been hungry I would have caught one as quick as a wink. The next time we meet any of them I'll show you. Yes, sir, I'll show you that I'm not afraid."

Hardly were the words out of his mouth when the sixth and last of Mrs. Skunk's family appeared. He had loitered behind the others and now he was hurrying to catch up. He didn't pay any attention to all the young Foxes, but shuffled along as if no such thing as thought of danger entered his head. He came along down the little path as independently as if he thought he owned the earth.

One of his sisters nudged little Mr. Smarty. "Here's your chance," she whispered. "If you are not afraid, catch him for us. We are hungry, if you are not."

Little Mr. Smarty looked to be sure that Mrs. Skunk and the other little Skunks were not in sight. Then he jumped out in the path in front of the half-grown little Skunk. That little Skunk was so very much smaller than he that any fear which little Mr. Smarty may have felt left him. It might be that Jimmy Skunk or Mrs. Skunk were really dangerous, but he didn't believe that such a little fellow as this could possibly make trouble. He would show his brothers and sisters that he wasn't afraid.

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women.

How Arria Taught Paetus Death Is Better Than Dishonor

ARRIA was the wife of Caecina Paetus, who was a Consul in Rome in the year 41. She was born in Rome, and always had the best interests of its people at heart. Arria was one of the most courageous women of her time, as her life reveals.

Paetus joined the army of Scribonius against the cruel Claudius of Illyria, and soon after was taken by sea to Rome a prisoner. Arria, who had been refused permission to accompany him on the perilous journey, to his place of imprisonment, hired a small boat and followed him secretly in the night.

In the meantime Scribonius had been killed, and Arria was sick at heart to think that the cause of her husband had failed. Now that Scribonius was dead and Paetus in prison the army had no leader. Arria realized that there was little she could do for the cause, so she followed her husband to see how she could serve him.

If there was nothing much that she could do, she could at least urge her people on to victory by her brave example. She would stand by her husband unto death if necessary.

In some way she must reach Paetus after her arrival in Rome and assure him of her love and willingness to give up everything for his sake. When Arria reached Rome she was startled to hear that Paetus was condemned to die if he did not comply with certain requests made by Claudius.

Death or honor—which would her husband choose? Arria resolved that Paetus must choose honor at any price. She gained permission to go to his place of confinement a short time before he was to be executed.

The scene of the meeting of Paetus and Arria was a sad one, because their separation had been long and bitter. Arria learned from Paetus that he was wavering between a decision to take his own life so his honor might be saved, or permit Claudius to kill him. For a Roman soldier to permit an enemy to take his life was the greatest dishonor.

only one course to choose—death by his own hand. Life to Paetus was a sweet thing. He loved his wife so dearly that the thought of leaving her was almost more than he could bear. Realizing that it was his love for her that was holding Paetus back, Arria told him that separation was not necessary.

Seizing a dagger which she had concealed in her dress, Arria plunged it into her breast. Then holding out her arms to Paetus, she smiled: "It is not painful, Paetus. See, I am going, too—and I am smiling."

Arria spoke the words haltingly, and then she smiled and dropped at his feet.

Paetus then seized the dagger, and—fell beside his brave wife. Thus the honor of the leader of a great army was saved by his wife.

As all good grocers and drug stores

To the 22,000,000 Women Who Do the Family Buying

Even the man who knows a woman best doesn't always give her credit for her skill in shopping within her budget.

Such things as underwear and hosiery, for instance, he takes for granted. So do the children.

But it is different with a woman who has to think for both menfolks and children—as well as herself.

Style, fit, wear, quality, good looks, right price—the Allen A Master Brand in her dealer's store is her surety of getting them all every time.

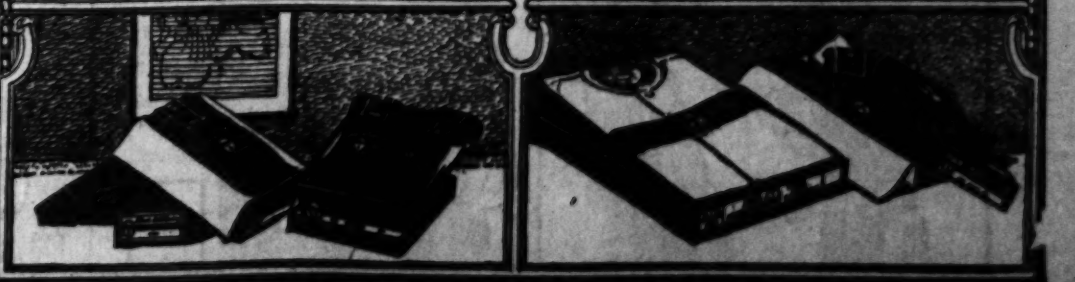

Every garment of Cooper's-Bennington Spring Needle Underwear for men and boys is now branded Allen A in addition to the Cooper's-Bennington trade-mark.

Each pair of the Black Cat Hosiery every woman knows so well is also branded in the same way.

The Allen A Master Brand signifies that both these celebrated lines are produced by the same manufacturer.

And that the Allen A Company takes a personal responsibility to every purchaser of either Underwear or Hosiery—or both.

Why the teeth of a child are safe with Listerine Tooth Paste

It cleans but cannot injure tooth enamel

We have chosen exactly the right cleansing agent for Listerine Tooth Paste. It is a substance just hard enough to polish off the daily accumulations of tartar. Yet it is not hard enough to injure even the most delicate tooth enamel. You have that comfortable feeling of knowing your tooth paste is doing its work—yet doing it safely.

Made by the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic

Naturally, you would expect a long established firm like the Lambert Pharmacal Company to provide you with a scientifically correct dentifrice—or none at all. It took this company years to perfect this paste for you. We are sure it is right—and the price also is right.

"It makes your mouth water"

Latest dental research has thoroughly established the fact that a dentifrice should contain mild fruit acids to stimulate the saliva which Nature provides to keep your teeth and gums healthy. Soapy ingredients cannot do this because soaps are alkaline. They discourage saliva flow and bring on tooth decay. Note how Listerine Tooth

Paste makes your mouth water. The fruit acids of apple, grapes, grapefruit and orange are at work helping Nature in her own way.

Watch how it whitens and brightens your teeth

Procure a tube of this delicious dentifrice from your nearest drug dealer. The price is 25c. Give it a thorough trial. Notice how your teeth respond—how that natural white gleam is restored. You'll be delighted with the results and you'll want no other dentifrice from this time on.

Listerine Tooth Paste is safe and efficient

—because it contains the correct polishing agent; removes tartar safely; can't injure the enamel;

—because it contains mild fruit acids (instead of harmful soaps and alkalies) to stimulate the saliva that Nature intended to keep your teeth healthy;

—because it contains the healing antiseptic essential oils contained in Listerine.

—the paste that's right at the price that's right

A THRILLER.

THE outlook wasn't brilliant for the Brownies that day. The Indians had arisen in a most ferocious way. They donned their paint and feathers and unlimbered all their guns. And overwhelmed the Brownies who had led by seven runs.

Then from ten thousand throats or more there issued urgent pleas. Five thousand had the willies and the rest had heart disease. Then up stepped Patrick Collins in the semifinal frame. And landing on the leather put the Brownies in the game.

When a sacrifice by Tobin had advanced pinch runner Durst. On a "hit-by-pitcher," Foster took a journey down to first. Then "Sis" beat out a bouncer putting men on every base. And Williams fled to Connelly sending Durst across the base.

And when the dust had settled there was Foster hugging third. While to a pitch of frenzy all the customers were stirred. On Sewell's chuck to center Eddie Foster crossed the pan. And the Yanks were running second while the Browns were in the van.

FOURTH INNING.

Sister walked, filling the bases. Williams dumped one into the right field seats, emptying same. That's what you call teamwork.

Looks like the Giants are fated to win that pennant in spite of themselves.

The man on the sandbox says that when the Yanks' first team is walked twice on the same day in the same place by the second team, it is clearly a case of insubordination.

Rabbit Maranville got five hits out of five times up Tuesday. The "rabbit" hall seems to be made to order for the "Rabbit."

THERE was a young girl named McVickers. Who went to the altar in knickers. It was plain to the glance. Who was wearing the pants. And the episode caused many snickers.

TOO BAD.

Just about the time Babe Ruth gets within hailing distance of his home-run rivals he draws a suspension from the ump. Another example of the uncertainties of baseball.

Pictures of football players are beginning to appear here and there. But it doesn't affect the thermometer one jot or tittle.

IT WOULD.

A LITTLE snowstorm now and then is relished by the best of men. And on this hot September day a little snow would be a k.

FLEETING FAME.

"Big Victory Won by Greeks Over Turks." Contradicting the rumor that Greece was slipping.

If Kaiser Bill is still yearning for a place in the sun we suggest that he try us before going elsewhere.

It begins to look like there ain't going to be no fall this fall.

There are two sides to every question in baseball. The fan's side and the ump's side.

DOING SOMETHING FOR THE PATIENT.

FRANK MCINTYRE, the plumpiest comedian on this continent, played vaudeville dates one season. One night after his turn he dropped into a short-order restaurant near the theater for a bite, before going to bed. Sitting next to him was a former circus acrobat, who did a horizontal act on the same bill with McIntyre.

The acrobat was sawing away at the sinewy knee joint of a fried chicken leg. Though the knife was sharp and he was athletic, he made but little headway.

He waved his arm toward a bottle of ketchup which stood upon the counter near McIntyre's elbow.

"Say, bo," he requested, "pass de ketchup, will you? De sea gull's got de rheumatism."
